THREE CHARLEROI YOUNG MEN ENLIST TO SERVE COUNTRY

William Cusick and Roland Flohr to Serve in Cavalry—George Gilmore Enlists in the Marines

Three Charleroi young men were among those who enlisted in Pittsburg Tuesday to serve their country. William Cusick and Ronald Flohr enlisted in the cavalry, together with Clarence Shoaf of West Newton. George Gilmore enlisted in the marine service through the agency of Justice of the Peace R. L. Culbertson of North Charleroi, a Civil war veteran. A number of young men from Monessen and Belle Vernon have tendered their services to the nation. Cusick and Flohr will leave Friday afternoon for the Columbus, Ohio, barracks where they will be drilled.

PLACING NEW STEEL GATES

Work Being Rushed on Construction of New Lock at No. 4

MOVEMENT AMONG CRAFT

The work of placing the new steel gates in the inner lock at Lock No. 4 by the Independent Bridge company is being rushed as rapidly as possible, considering the scarcity of labor. The two upper gates are in place and will be completed by the last of this week. Two lower gates are being put in place today by structural iron men and riveters. Valves are being installed. Owing to the delay in the machinery, much of it having not arrived, no definite time has been set for opening the new lock.

The crane boat Monongahela, which was called to Lock No. 4 during the serious break in the dam a month ago has returned to Lock No. 3 and has resumed work on the installation of a new turbine water wheel to be used in furnishing power to operate the locks. It will supplant the steam power now in use to a certain extend. However the latter will not be done away with.

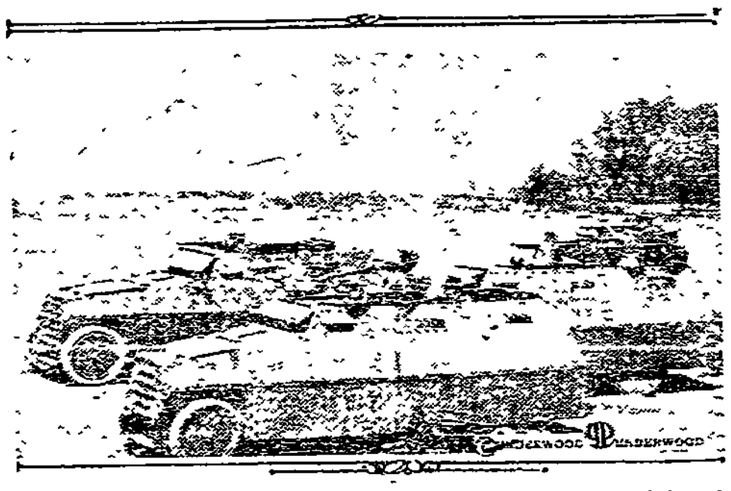
The Dravo Construction company with dredge boats and steamers are dredging for the Youghiogheny and Ohio Coal company at their Charleroi mines.

The U. S. Dredge No. 2 and the Steamer Swan left Tuesday for Locks No. 2 and 3 respectfully, where some dredging about the locks will be done.

The Duquesne Light company has purchased the steamer Sam Barnum from the Diamond Coal company and will operate in the fourth pool. Capt. John Howden, formerly of the steamer Atha will be in command. The company has also purchased 25 barges and will operate chiefly in the fourth pool, towing coal to their plant at Neville Island near Pittsburg.

The loading and shipping of coke by river during the past month has proven quite a feature along the river. The steamer Junieta passed down with three barges of coke from the Ronco Coke works in the sixth pool. The coke is loaded in specially constructed barges holding 20,000 bushels each and is shipped to the Carnegie Steel mills at Duquesne. The steamer Alicia passed down Tuesday with a large consignment of coke from the W. H. Brown coke works at Alicia and Denbo near Brownsville. All the coke now shipped by river is of a superior quality and is the product of the latest improved ovens. The coke industry on the Monongahela is largely on the increase.

Armored Motor Battery, a Development of Field Artillery, Novel in New York



All of the novelties of modern warfare have not yet been revealed to the American public, but it is no exaggeration to state that there are many of them. This picture shows three units of the First Armored Motor Battery of the N. Y. N. G. manoeuvering near Fort Washington Park, New York. The trucks have been drawn up in regular formation while the soldiers are firing away at an imaginary enemy from a plain overlooking the Hudson River. This is the way they would fight in actual battle. Some of the men who man these formidable armored motor trucks act as scouts, using motorcycles. When the batteries approach they take their places in them, each being assigned to a machine gun or rifle. Officers use revolvers. The chauffeur is entirely hidden.

DETAILS OF GALA DAY WILL BE CONSIDERED

An important meeting of the committees arranging for Charleroi's patriotic demonstration is being arranged for tonight at 8 o'clock in the Charleroi borough building. Reports of work already done will be made and details arranged. The celebration is to be held May 19.

Many Charleroi people are planning to attend the Uniontown speedway races which will take place tomorrow with some of the most famous race drivers in the world entered in the competition. Many automobile parties are being made. A special train will be run to the speedway by the Pennsylvania railroad.

Chief of Police C. W. Albright was a Pittsburg visitor Wednesday.

SEVERAL CHANGES TAKE PLACE ALONG RIVER

Several changes are now effective among government employes of the Monongahela river having taken place May 1.

Joseph Bell, foreman on construction work at Lock No 4 has resigned to accept a position with a large contracting company in Pittsburg. John W. McMichaels, assistant lockmaster at Lock No. 2 has resigned to take a position with the Carnegie Steel company at Braddock. Nicholas La June at Lock No. 2 has resigned to take charge of the steamer Midland of the Crucible Coal company as first mate. Benjamin Fisher has been appointed lockman at Lock No. 4. William Sharpneck and Joseph Murray, lockmen at Lock No. 4 have both taken positions with the Pittsburg Steel company at Monessen. Capt. Joseph L. Moor, an old time boatman is now watchman on the U. S. crane boat, Capt. Robert Covert, one of the oldest packet pilots has been appointed as lockman at Lock No. 6. C. B. Copeland, for over eight years employed on the U. S. Steamer Slackwater has been appointed lockman at Lock No. 4. W. S. Herrington, carpenter foreman on the Slackwater has been granted a furlough. E. O. Davis, blacksmith on the Slackwater has resigned to take up an agency for the Pennsy Motor company of Pittsburg. Michael Daugherty has returned to his duty as lockman at Lock No. 4 after an absence of several weeks.

NATION FACING BREAD SHORTAGE BECAUSE OF THE LACK OF WHEAT

Market Reports Indicate Great Falling Off in Year's Crop

HIGHER PRICES FOR LESS

Such Can be Only Result—Lessened Consumption Will Help People Tide Over Period—Food Control is Further Urged

From Associated Press and market reports a bread shortage faces the American people unless the consumption is materially reduced. The wheat crop estimates shows the United States will produce only enough this year to supply its own population having its smallest yield in 13 years. This can mean only one thing, higher prices of flour and bread and less of it.

There will be no estimate of spring wheat acreage until July but with the crop of 50,000,000 bushels which is higher than the average, this country would grow this year a total of only 616,000,000 bushels. The normal American consumption, with seed requirements, is put at slightly more than 600,000,000 bushels.

The country's greatest spring wheat crop was 532,000,000 bushels, produced in 1915. The five year average from 1900 to 1914 is 234,000,000. The estimated production this year of 366,000,000 bushels of winter wheat falls 16,000,000 bushels short of last year's crop and 308,000,000 bushels below that of 1915 a bumper crop. It is 129,000,000 bushels less than the average for the preceding five years.

Reserve stocks this year are said to be lower than at any time at this season.

Herbert C. Hoover, chairman of the food committee of the Council of National Defense, who is strongly in favor of a more limited use of wheat in this country, appeared before the National Agricultural commission Tuesday and urged a separate department of the government to deal with the food question. He recommended absolute control of certain staples, particularly grain and sugar. He asked prompt action on the administration food bills and pointed to the Allied food troubles as proof of the necessity for taking home of the situation early in the war.

THE CIRCUS AND WAR

Evidently war will have little effect on circuses. Perhaps it is because the war seems too far off, too vague a thing. At any rate the various "largest in the land" are beginning their schedules, as though they intended to carry ont their regular program war or no war.

It is just as well American armies are to be sent to the battle front and the conscription bill put to the test. Our young men are to be drawn to the colors But there will be no use deadening things any more than war naturally will by entirely eliminating our means of entertainment. A circus is a great institution and it almost seems as if the people could not well get along without it.

This suggests the though that some of our army youngsters might well be given opportunity of studying methods of handling monster circuses. It is the greatest evidence of systematic organization the world knows for a tented aggregation to make daily jumps of 20 to 200 miles to give two shows and to jump again. The circus springs up as if by magic and disappears the same way. Imagine any other business but a circus loading 80 cars of material away in two or four hours time and unloading and placing the same in a similar period of time. It takes indeed a vivid imaginaton to grasp the illustration because of its utter inconsistency.

During the Spanish-American war army heads were hardput for a means of getting material moved without delay from one point to another. It was a problem they could not master when a circus organizer was called in. He arranged matters in no time. What we may need in this war very soon are a few expert circus men. Peuticularly may this be true when the commissary department is facing such extreme dufficulties as it seems to be.

PICKED UP IN PASSING

The woman asked the negro his name when he applied for a job.

"Mah name is Poe, ma'am."

"Poe? Perhaps some of your family worked for Edgar Allan Poe."

The negro's eyes opened in surprise. "Why—" he gasped, "why, Ah am Edgar Allan Poe."

An Atlanta lawyer tells of a newly qualified judge in one of the towns of the South who was trying one of his first criminal cases. The prisoner was an old negro charged with robbing a hen coop. He had been in court before on a similar charge and was then acquitted.

"Well, Henry," observed the judge, "I see you're in trouble again."

"Yessuh," replied the negro, "the last time, jedge you will recollect, you was my lawyer."

"Where is you lawyer this time?"

"I ain't got no lawyer this time," said Henry, "I's going to tell the truth."

USE OF THE PILLORY

CONTINUED AS A PUNISHMENT IN THIS COUNTRY UNTIL 1837.

Delaware Was the Last State to Abolish It—Barbarous Devices Used Generally for Cheats, Forgers and Perjurers.

It was only 125 years ago that the pillory was used in Boston. The last American victim of this medieval mode of punishment did not suffer in vain, for by his martyrdom he aroused so strong a sentiment against the pillory in Boston that it was abolished. This barbarous device, which had been common in Europe and America for a long period, was not finally abolished in the United States until 1839, and even after that Delaware continued to give legal sanction to its use. The pillory was abolished in 1857.

An instrument similar to the pillory was in use in England in the earliest times, and in numerous instances the victims were killed by being struck with stones.

In England and also in colonial New England the punishment of the pillory was most often inflicted on cheats, forgers and perjurers. It is recorded that the mayor of London, in 1287, "did sharpe correction upon bakers for making bread of light weight; he caused divers of them to be put in the pillory, as also one Agnes Daintie, for selling mingled butter." Quacks and mountebanks, fraudulent coal, corn and cattle dealers, sellers of sham gold rings, users of false measures, soothsayers and fortune tellers, and beggars who made false pretenses were also frequently subjected to punishment by the pillory. At a later period the pillory was used for the punishment of heretics and advanced thinkers, and many men and women of noble lives and high aspirations were subjected to this ignominy.

NEW IDEAS FOUND IN INDIA

Marriage and Family Customs of Ages Are Now Changing Rapidly Because of Education.

I realized that there was a new ideal of wifehood and motherhood in India when I visited Miss Robinson, principal of the Isabella Thoburn college, and she showed me a big packet of letters says a writer in the World Outlook.

"There is a new world in India," she said. "Eight thousand young men are graduating from college every year. These men don't want a mere child, a toy, for a wife; they wish companionship. All these, holding out the package, are letters of inquiry of a matrimonial nature. We could arrange for more marriages than we have graduates and those marriages into the most desirable families. Sometimes it seems as if I were conducting a matrimonial bureau to supply wives for future college professors, judges, deputy collectors and all sorts of influential men."

That is it! There is a new man as well as a new woman in the Orient and this man has a new ideal of womanhood and family life. In Bombay I was shown, slightly out from the city, new, separate houses building for Indian young married people who desired to break away from the patriarchal or group family, where the young wife is under the absolute sway of the mother in-law.

In some cases families not Christian are setting up that characteristic Christian institution, the family meal. This alone means a revolution in the position of woman; for by Indian custom the wife, whether of high or low degree, has waited upon her husband, standing while he ate, and later has partaken alone, or with the children, of the portion of food he set aside for her.

French Artists Suffer.

It is said that art and artists have been nearly extinguished in France by the war. Without work, without any demand for their paintings, without resources, many artists, it is said, are really suffering extreme indigence. Le Cri de Paris says that the committee of the Brotherhood of Artists is now distributing 1,800 francs a day in bread to needy artists. The president of the society is M. Bonnat, eighty-two years old, who organized and superintends everything. As the receipts of the committee are insufficient for the demands that are made, M. Bonnat, who sold a picture some time ago for 19,000 francs, turned the entire amount into the fund and this he declared was the first money he had touched since the declaration of war. William A. Coffin president of the American artists committee of 100, New York city, has made a pressing appeal to artists in America for money to relieve the families of French artists, many of whom are fighting at the front.

TENDERNESS IN EVERY MAN

How It Made Itself Apparent in Micky Medill of K Troop, Trainer of Famous Army Horse.

There is a certain amount of tenderness in the makeup of every man. It was put there for the benefit of women and children. Soldiers and sailors are constantly barred away from the natural objects of this trait, and that is why pets do so well in squad rooms. No one could wish a cur a kindlier fate than to fall in with a company of infantry, and barracks are usually cluttered with every form of animal life, from horned toads to monkeys. Micky Medill had known little of affection, but he loved the slim black gelding, says a writer in Scribner's. He went about the training with the tenderness of a mother for a child. He was sorry for the colt's terror, and he, above all men, could sympathize with Kavass' friendliness and the dread that K troop had of him. In the end the colt forgot the bitter experience of his recruit weeks, and finally Kavass of K troop became—well, Kavass of K troop. He knew every trick that kindness and patience can teach an intelligent horse. He became the best three-mile horse in the army. He could leap a five-foot hurdle without apparent effort. He won an important steeplechase when the troop was stationed at Fort Meyer, Va. He attended a New York horse show and took ribbons in the charger class. He was one of the few animals that were landed in Cuba with the army of Santiago. He was wounded back of El Caney, and so became an army hero. At last he distinguished himself internationally by carrying an important message 110 miles in 15 hours, during the threatened Ute uprising—a message that is generally conceded to have averted a threatened Indian war.

No Arab of romance was ever a more devoted master than the regenerated Micky Medill. He had found something that repaid affection. As the rider and trainer of Kavass, he became somebody in his little world. The captain perceived his talent, and he was made stable orderly, and finally sergeant.

MAN MAKER OF WOMAN'S GARB

Meanest Part of It, Says Writer, Is That He Makes Her Look Funny, Then Laughs.

Every now and then some writer makes fun of woman's attire, not realizing that man gets up these skirts, shoes, spats and hats for woman, and the meanest part of it is that after man has sold women [illegible] and made her look funny he laughs at her, says a writer in the New York Sun.

Some day woman will see how beautiful she is and that man cunningly tries to make her look homely and awkward, and when that day comes no skirts that are likely to shrink into a girdle will mar her lines of natural grace; no shoes, no spats will spoil the beauty of her feet; but the classic folds of Grecian draperies will reveal her heretofore hidden symmetry and form under them her sandal toes will modestly peep out. Upon her crowning glory the classic ribbon or the laurel wreath will rest and bring out the beauty of her brow.

Then perhaps man, relieved of this responsibility for woman, will have a little time to see that his costume is not a bit ridiculous.

Woman's Profitable Fad.

Collecting rare and beautiful butterflies is ordinarily thought of as the interesting though not particularly profitable task of a naturalist, but in Boston there is a woman who has transformed butterfly collecting into a commercial enterprise yielding handsome profits. For this woman's unusual line of trade a force of trained collectors, scattered over all parts of the world, is engaged in gathering no less than 700,000 specimens a year. She was first interested in this work through the work of her husband, who was a Harvard entomologist. Now, instead of these exquisite insects being mounted for scientific collections only, they are used chiefly for decorative purposes in a score of different ways by jewelers, florists, modistes and others.—Popular Mechanics Magazine.

Much of Canada Unexplored.

A paper upon the unexplored parts of Canada has been recently prepared by Charles Camsel of the Canadian geologic survey, in which he points out that the unexplored area of Canada is greater than is generally understood. In estimating the area of this country, he follows the plan of considering as explored a strip of 15 miles on each side of an explorer's route. On this basis the unexplored area amounts to about 901,000 square miles, and this does not take account of blocks under 4,000 square miles in extent. This is about 23 per cent of the total area of Canada, excluding Arctic islands.

Artificial Light.

When in need of light we push a button and, presto! "there is light," thanks to electricity. Only a little while ago, however, we had to turn a tap and apply a match before we had light, and before gaslight our fathers and grandfathers struggled along with kerosene lamps, which seemed to them a big improvement over the candles of their fathers. Taking it by and large, we are pretty fortunate, living in such an advanced age, but it was not always so, as the development of illumination will show—our forbears deserve a great deal of credit for their improvements in artificial light.

The Traitor

By Berton Braley.

He hangs out a flag from his home and his office
He always stands up at "The Star Spangled Banner,"
In talks and discussions he rails at the Prussians
And handles the Kaiser in virulent manner;
He always is present at loyalty meetings
And upon the platform he pays for a seat,
(The price doesn't matter, his profits are fatter
Since war gave him chances for cornering wheat.)

He talks with emotion of "Brave Soldier Laddies"
Or "noble young jackies who sail on the foam,"
Then shoots up the price on potatoes and rice
And other things needed abroad and at home;
He praises brave mothers who give their sons freely
Then soaks those same mothers for clothing and food,
But if you cry "Traitor" this smooth speculator
Will think you are one of a lunatic brood.

Yet Benedict Arnold was only a piker
Compared to the man who amid all the strife,
Will seize on the chances to force huge advances
In things that a nation depends on for life;
He did his foul works in the war of secession
He poisoned our boys in the conflict with Spain
High up on a gibbet we ought to exhibit
This traitor who holds up a a nation for gain!

A little five-year-old East Winthrop, Me., lad went to Sunday school with his sister, some older, and was much impressed with what he heard and saw. He talked considerably about his visit and his remarks were very interesting, he deciding that someone lived in heaven who could do any and all things.

It was soon after that the lad's mother had occasion to call him to her, and he, boylike, replied in the "just-a-minute" manner, remarking that it was going to rain and he wanted to catch some of the rainwater. The lady soon repeated the summons and tiptoed along to see what he was doing, to find him just completing the setting of his traps and to hear him say as he left the [illegible]: "All you [illegible] let 'er rain!"—Kennebec Journal.

EAT INSECT PESTS

BIRDS ARE REAL FRIENDS OF THE AGRICULTURIST.

Investigations Have Proved Beyond All Doubt That Feathered Creatures Take High Place in Ranks of Farmers' Helpers.

There seems never to have been a time when Americans as a people were giving so much thought to birds as now. The sentimental virtues of birds and their economic uses are being written of frequently and extensively by professional and amateur biologists and ornithologists, and even a vast number of bird observers of perhaps limited professional or technical attainments in this department of science are writing and talking at length in behalf of the birds.

The discussion of the economic values of birds is one of the questions of serious importance to the whole country. It has been pointed out by students of this subject that a tree swallow's stomach recently examined contained 40 chinchbugs and fragments of many others, besides ten other species of insects. The stomach of a bank swallow showed that it contained 68 cotton boll weevils, one of the very dangerous and destructive insect pests of the United States. Thirty-five cliff swallows had eaten an average of 18 boll weevils each. Two stomachs of pine siskins from California contained 19 black olive scales and 300 plant lice. The stomach of a killdeer taken in Texas contained more than 300 larvae. A flicker's stomach held 28 big grubs. A night hawk's stomach contained 34 May beetles, the adult form of the white grub. A New York night hawk had eaten 24 clover-leaf weevils and 357 ants, and another night hawk, 340 grasshoppers, 52 bugs, three beetles, two wasps and a spider. A big-tailed grackle taken in Texas had eaten in one meal about 100 cotton boll weevils, besides other insects. A ring-neck pheasant, a bird which the state of New York is taking great interest in propagating, showed upon examination of the crop that it contained 8,000 seeds of chickenweed and a dandelion head. More than 72,000 seeds have been found in a single duck's stomach taken in Louisiana.

The investigations by the United States biological survey and the biological and agricultural bureaus of the various states leave no room for doubt that birds play an important relation to agricultural interests, though there often seems a tendency to dwell on the harm that even a much-despised English sparrow has its part to perform in protecting the agricultural interests of the United States [illegible] of the biological [illegible] great deal of attention [illegible] abused bird. It has collected them from all parts of the United States and made an examination of 4,000 stomachs, the results showing that during the colder half of the year the food of these birds consists almost entirely of seeds of weeds.

It has been estimated by entomologists that the annual loss caused in the United States by insects is $700,000,000 and that were it not for birds the loss would be much greater. Careful students have said that without the aid of our feathered friends successful agriculture would be impossible. The amount of weed seed disposed of by birds, in their depleted numbers, is impressive, and everybody knows that the problem of weed destruction is very important to agricultural interests.—Washington Star.

New Menace.

An oldtime son of the Fatherland was reading the evening news after the day's work was ended. Glancing over the various headlines, his eyes fell on one which threatened to call for the services of a Sherlock Holmes or a Philo Gubb.

He read and reread, muttering the puzzling words over and over to himself. He wiped his glasses, turned up the light and looked again. But the words read exactly the same.

Some terrible thing had fallen on the front of a street car at Niagara Falls and killed a motorman. The old German's son just then stepped into the room, and was amazed to hear his father say "Well, I'll be hanged—Ic-kick-Ic-kick-kel. What in the —— is an ic-kick-kel?"

The son took the paper and read that a large icicle, breaking from the gorge, had fallen on the passing car and had killed the motorman.

Plan Monument on Mountain.

The General-Anzeiger of Breslau reports that a gigantic war monument to commemorate fallen Silesian soldiers is to be erected in the heart of the province of the Angels mountain of the Zobten range. This mountain, which is about 3,000 feet high, is a prominent object, and is seen from all parts of the Silesian lowlands. The intention is to cut into terraces about 600 feet of the upper part of the mountain, and to give this portion a regular conical form. On the summit of the mountain, and raised on a mighty base of rock, a colossal building surmounted by a cupola is to be erected At the four corners of the building on the roof fire will flame out all night long to be visible from all parts of Silesia.

Desperation.

"Is dis high cost of livin' worryin' you?" asked Meandering Mike.

"It's drivin' me desperate," replied Plodding Pete. "I'm almost tempted to go to work."

ANIMALS AT WORK

WAR'S EFFECT UPON LABOR CONDITIONS IN ENGLAND.

Novel Experiments Have Proved Satisfactory, as in the Case of Storekeeper With His Parrot—Elephant Replaces Horse.

Many strange and unexpected cases are on record in which animals and birds have proved themselves useful to mankind, very often serving their masters more reliably than many human beings would do under similar circumstances.

At times of stress like the present, such dumb servants have proved themselves particularly useful, a good instance in point being provided by the case of a gentleman in the west of England who recently lost his gardener through the man enlisting. His master was confronted by the problem of his lawn, about which he had always been very particular, for the grass quickly threatened to make his once trim grounds look very much like a wilderness.

Then he hit upon a brilliant idea.

Wiring off the ground, he turned in a dozen guinea pigs, who promptly proceeded to nibble away at the grass as evenly and neatly as any mowing machine could have done, much to the master's delight.

Similarly, an East End tradesman lately found himself short-handed owing to the war, and after some thought, this man hit upon a solution of the problem.

He happened to possess a pet parrot, and this bird he placed in the outer part of his shop and trained it to call "Shop!" whenever anyone entered by way of the street door.

The parrot very quickly learned its lesson, with the result that its master was no longer obliged to spend all his time on the lookout for customers, but could attend to other matters, knowing he could count upon his new assistant to warn him of anybody's approach.

The intelligence of dogs is known to everyone, but a dog as a golf caddie is somewhat of a novelty, you will admit. Nevertheless, the animal is no imaginary character, but a real caddie, who works on the links of a certain widely known course. Besides carrying clubs, this dog proves himself very useful in the matter of discovering lost golf balls, nosing about until he is successful.

But the war has made one strange spectacle possible in England. In Sheffield an elephant may be seen [illegible]wing heavy loads along the streets. [illegible]med for this particular an[illegible] empty a nine-ton [illegible]o journeys. Camels [illegible]ployed by the same firm, but as draft animals cannot be compared with the elephants.—London Answers.

Troubles Never Come Singly.

A resident of Boothbay, Me., was told by a neighbor that his son's cow was out in another pasture, and started to bring her in. He found a cow loose and set out in chase.

For an hour or two he chased one of the most obstinate and disgusting animals ever born into the cow breed. And at last he caught her and brought her out to the road and was leading her triumphantly home, when he met a neighbor who asked him what he was doing with another neighbor's cow. And so it proved. For the original stray cow was still in the wrong pasture, but tied securely to a tree. The other cow had had a perfect right to it grazing ground.

The exasperated gentleman then set out again and this time found the right strayed cow and took her home.

When he arrived at his son's place with his son's cow he found one of his own cows in his son's field and eating up the son's cabbages.

Kings Who Reigned Briefly.

Sixty-eight years is a long time to wear a crown. Many other monarchs have hardly had time to get comfortably settled upon their thrones before death or abdication overtook them.

John I of France has to his credit a reign of only five days. For brevity that is hard to match.

Napoleon was emperor the second time for 100 days, and then started for St. Helena. Louis XVIII, whom he so rudely deposed in March, 1815, had occupied his throne less than one year.

Francis II ruled but a year, Louis X two years and Louis VIII three years.

Russia has also witnessed some lightning changes in the house of Romanoff. Katharine I was czarina but two years and Ivan VI for a year. Peter II was czar of all Russias for only three years.

Venice Has Electrical Ears.

According to a newspaper correspondent who recently visited Venice, the Austrian airmen have made more than thirty raids on that famous city.

The observation station there is provided with sensitive electrical microphones, which are said to detect the noise of the motors on the Austrian planes the moment they leave Trieste, some sixty miles away. Electric sirens are immediately sounded to warn everyone of the approach of hostile aircraft, which cover the distance between the cities in something like forty minutes. Thus ample time is afforded for completing the antiaircraft artillery preparations before the first Austrian airman reaches his target.—Scientific American.

HOST HAD REASONED WELL

Couldn't Afford to Sacrifice Reputation for Veracity by Backing Up His Guest's "Tall" Story.

A well-known diplomat told at a dinner in Washington a significant parable.

"They who expect the men in authority to do a great deal for them—they who expect the impossible—should remember the grizzly-bear story.

"A famous grizzly-bear hunter gave a dinner, and one of the guests told of a bear hunt that he had once shared in with his host. It had been a remarkable hunt. The bear had been killed under almost incredible difficulties. Although his auditors looked skeptical, the narrator did not spare them any of those difficulties. He counted on the host, you see, for corroboration.

"Then, when he had finished his strange but perfectly true tale, he said:

"'There, that's the story, and, gentlemen, our host will corroborate every word I say.'

"'No, George,' he said, 'I don't remember anything of this sort at all.'

"Tableau!

"Maddened by this tableau, the guest, at the end of the dinner, took his host aside and hissed:

"'Why didn't you back me up in that bear story? You know every word of it was true.'

"'Yes,' said the famous hunter; 'yes, it was all true, but I saw that everybody round the table thought you were lying. If, then, I had supported you, the only result would have been they would have set me down for a liar, too.'"

WARNED OF "DARK HORSE"

Phrase That Has Become Famous Had Its Origin in a Race Meet in Tennessee Town.

The first use of the phrase, "a dark horse," has been traced to a turf oracle named Judge McMinnmee. A man named Sam Flynn owned a black stallion called Dusky Pete. He was not a "likely hoss" in appearance, but he could travel at a rate that put most of the animals pitted against him to scorn.

It was Flynn's custom to ride this horse into a town where a race meeting was being held, and enter him in a race. Dusky Pete didn't look particularly good, and Flynn could always get a goodly number of bets down at excellent odds. Seldom did Pete fail to romp home far ahead of the local favorites, to the enrichment of his owner.

One day Judge McMinnmee was appointed judge at a race meet, and among the entries he observed Dusky Pete. "Gentlemen," he [illegible] dark horse in this [illegible] ve sick." After [illegible] saying to "Look [illegible] dark horse."

Left Vicar's Wife Thinking.

The vicar's wife was tireless in discouraging the use of tobacco. According to the good lady, it was the weed which made a veritable wilderness of the rose garden of life. "Well, Annie," she remarked to one of the village lasses about to get married, "I hope your chosen is one of the non-chimney variety—does not smoke." "He ain't what you'd call a slave to the habit, ma'am," replied the girl, "but he ain't exactly a stranger to it. I don't feel called on to put a stop to it, neither. You see, I want him to be happy and comfortable about the house when we're married." "Surely he would be just as happy without that dreadful tobacco?" advanced the lady. "P'raps he would, ma'am, and p'raps he wouldn't," came the answer; "anyhow, I wouldn't like him to keep on findin' jobs out o' sight every few minutes, then come in eatin' corfy berries, like the poor vicar."—London Tit-Bits.

Man Who Knew Everything.

Thiers, the French statesman, was a victim of many whimsies. None had stronger hold on him, says Mgr. Gabriel Hanotaux in Contemporary France, than his desire to get everybody to recognize his universal competency.

Of an applicant for the post of director at the Sevres manufactory Thiers said:

"He is no more made for that part than I for—" and then he stopped.

"Ah, oh! M. Thiers," said his interlocutor, "you find it hard to say what you could not do."

"That's the truth!" That's the truth!" cried the statesman gleefully.

One day Thiers said, speaking of a man who had been raised to a high function:

"He is no more suited for that office than I am to be a druggist. And yet," he added, catching himself up, "I do know chemistry!"

Freedom's True Friend.

The true friend of freedom does not wish to be insulted by the supposition that he believes each human individual an erring man, and that nevertheless the united clamor of erring men has a character of divinity about it; nor does he desire to be told that the voice of the people, though legitimately and institutionally proclaimed and justly commanding respect and obedience, is divine on that account. He knows that the majority may err, and that he has the right and often the duty to use his whole energy to convince them of their error, and lawfully to bring about a different set of laws. The true and stanch Republican wants liberty, but no deification either of himself or others.—Emerson.

GARDEN COLUMN

By National Emergency Food Garden Commission

Eggplant.

Eggplant is a difficult vegetable for the amateur gardener to handle, says today's bulletin from the National Emergency Food Garden Commission. [illegible] other plant, therefore [illegible] grown where the [illegible] is short. Nor should it be attempted in poor soil, nor by anyone who is not willing to give it plenty of attention. It requires one or more transplantings, and if its growth suffers any check the crop is likely to be a failure.

Inasmuch as it is not safe to set our eggplant in the garden much before the middle of June, and because the plant requires a long growing season, the seeds should be sown indoors, or in an out door hotbed. One-third of an ounce of seed will produce enough plants to make a row 100 feet long. These seeds are usually sown thickly in rows in the seed boxes and when the plants are large enough to handle they are transplanted to flower pots filled with rich soil. Some gardeners however, preferred to sow the seed directly in flower pots and to thin out the seedlings later.

Unless the seedling are transplanted to large pots directly from the seed box, as the plant grow they should be set in larger pots. Some gardeners make three transfers before putting the plants into the garden, which should not be done until warm weather is settled and the plants are 6 to 10 inches high. Great care should be used not to disturb the roots in any transplanting. Injury can be avoided by using old berry boxes instead of flower pots for growing the seedlings; the bottom of the boxes being torn off and then the rest of the box set into the garden with the plant.

Plants should set 18 inches apart, and the fruits may be eaten when they are 3 inches or more in diameter.

A Medicine for Women

[illegible] Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has Relieved the Sufferings of Women.

It hardly seems possible that there is a woman in this country who continues to suffer without giving Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial after all the evidence that is continually being published, proving beyond contradiction that this grand old medicine has relieved more suffering among women than any other medicine in the world.

Mrs. Kieso Cured After Seven Month's Illness.

Aurora, Ill.—"For seven long months I suffered from a female trouble, with severe pains in my back and sides until I became so weak I could hardly walk from chair to chair, and got so nervous I would jump at the slightest noise. I was entirely unfit to do my house work, I was giving up hope of ever being well, when my sister asked me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I took six bottles and today I am a healthy woman able to do my own housework. I wish every suffering woman would try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and find out for herself how good it is."—Mrs. Karl A. Kieso, 596 North Ave., Aurora, Ill.

Could Hardly Get Off Her Bed.

Cincinnati, Ohio.—"I want you to know the good Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for me. I was in such bad health from female troubles that I could hardly get off my bed. I had been doctoring for a long time and my mother said, 'I want you to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.' So I did, and it has certainly made me a well woman. I am able to do my house work and am so happy as I never expected to go around the way I do again, and I want others to know what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for me."—Mrs. Josie Copner, 1668 Harrison Ave., Fairmount, Cincinnati, Ohio.

White House Clerks Plow and Plant; Washington Has Many Little Farms

Since the memorable utterances of President Wilson concerning the urgency of increased production of foodstuffs, the nation has figuratively gone to farming. Velvety lawns have been sacrificed to the plow and harrow and thousands of men and women and children are engaged in the cultivation of little garden plots. In the National Capital the suggestion of the President has already borne its first fruits. The White House clerks and members of the staff have obtained permission to cultivate lots near at hand. The picture shows them plowing in a field off Pennsylvania Avenue near Madison Place, across the street from the White House and the Treasury Building. Several acres have thus been prepared, and a variety of vegetables have been planted. The seeds were supplied by the Department of Agriculture.
